Blaine Will Stick to Dammann in Spite of La Follette's Opposition

Chinese Falls.—The following statement with regard to candidates for secretary of state was given out by Gov. John J. Blaine at Barron, Wis., at noon today:

"I have received scores of communications and hundreds of personal inquiries have been made asking whom I am supporting for secretary of state."

Dammann Endorsement By Blaine Repudiates La Follette, Says Rival

Madison.—Governor Blaine's endorsement of Theodore Dammann for secretary of state is a virtual repudiation of Senator La Follette, declares a statement issued at headquarters for Lieutenant Governor George F. Collins, candidate for governor here today.

"Senator La Follette's attempt to bring about harmony among progressives in Wisconsin has failed with the endorsement given Dammann by Mr. Blaine," the statement says. "The senator's appeal to leaders in the state to lay aside personal prejudices has failed to take effect with the executive. Mr. Blaine's action is destined to bring about his defeat, since he has openly declared he will not be governed by Senator La Follette's wishes in political matters."

The endorsement given Dammann by the governor is considered an important development in the political situation by progressive leaders here. It is understood Attorney General Herman L. Ekren will confer today with Senator La Follette in Washington and present the matter to him.

Three of the fugitives were arrested July 10, on a charge of attempted assault on two girls at Waverly beach near Appleton, and were held without bail. They were Anton Kerschner of Kaukauna, Carl Gerveling and Charles Kern of Appleton. The fourth prisoner to escape was Daniel Haege of Brill, who was arrested on a charge of robbing a saloon at Harrison several weeks ago.

FRANCE IS TORN BY STORM OF RAGE OVER BRITISH NOTE

Paris.—The storm raised by the British prime minister's letter to France and Belgium, urging expedition of the evacuation of the Ruhr, continues to rage.

Official circles, however, maintain that Mr. MacDonald acted quite naturally in the matter, using the only procedure available to him to make known officially, a part from the London conference, the traditional viewpoint of his government.

It is further pointed out in these circles that the letter, dated last Saturday, was written prior to Premier MacDonald's speech at the close of the evacuation of the Ruhr, and that the British evacuation question; consequently, they contend, the publication of the letter was a purely political move, designed to modify French attitude nor diminish the satisfactory results obtained in London.

311 CARS ARE DRIVEN AWAY AFTER FETE

Despite the rains of Tuesday morning, which held down attendance at the Chevrolet driveaway exhibition, the event was a huge success.

The Chevrolet clubhouses were crowded all through the afternoon with visiting dealers and their wives. Three hundred and eleven cars were driven away at the termination of the picnic.

Washouts and muddy roads prevented a few of the dealers from the northern part of the state from attending, but large representations were present from Racine, Kenosha, Madison, and Milwaukee.

The dealers and their families were guests of the local plant at a chicken dinner served in the clubhouse at noon. Employees of the office here were given a half holiday and assisted in the carrying out of the event.

A kiltball game between the Janesville plant and the Ancker Chevrolet company of Milwaukee was won by Janesville, 25 to 3. The feature of the afternoon was a business exhibition presented by the Walsh twins. Other events on the program were tug of war, horseshoe matches and races. ROCK CO. SEEKS BLUE SILK BANNER AT STATE FAIR

COUNTY PRODUCERS SEND MANY EXHIBITS FOR MONDAY.

STRONG IN JUNIORS

Live Stock Exhibits and Agricultural Products Look Unbeatable.

Rock county will seek to uphold its slogan—"Rock County First"—at the Wisconsin state fair opening in West Allis on Monday.

Three out of the last four years, Rock county has been successful as a winner for the county sweepstakes championship pitted against 70 other Badger districts, losing only in 1922, when Waushara county won the blue banner. This blue banner is emblematic of being the leading agricultural county of Wisconsin—the great net dairy and diversified farming state in the U. S. A. The county sweepstakes championship is determined on a basis of a point for every dollar won in premium money and all exhibits count in the scoring.

All lines of community effort will be represented by Rock county at the state fair, livestock, general farming, junior schools, schools, demonstration team and educational work.

Win with Livestock.

In the past Rock county has been able to distance rival counties because of the quality and variety of livestock exhibits, cattle, sheep and swine. This year will see a superior exhibit going forth in the state fair classes to defend the county's championship of last year.

There will be 76 head of dairy cattle in the county show herd, representing the 65,198 head of cattle in Rock county. Rock will enter with about 30 other counties having county collections of cattle, including Jefferson, with her famous Holsteins. (Continued on Page 5)

State Asks Death Penalty for Three Different Crimes

Chicago.—Two of the three high crimes for which Illinois provides the death penalty—murder, kidnapping and another, were committed by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb in a manner justifying nothing less than death on the gallows, Thomas Marshall, assistant state's attorney, told Judge John H. Caverty today.

He urged the extreme penalty in an argument based upon the phraseology of the Illinois laws and the formal charges connected with the kidnapping and murder of Robert Frank to which the defendants have pleaded guilty.

Judge Caverty closed a book of law and followed the text as Mr. Marshall read it. (Continued on Page 5)

Trainmen in Neutrality Stand

Cleveland, Ohio.—In a circular mailed today to the 150,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, advice is given the members regarding political action, which will be reported in the September issue of the brotherhood's official publication, in which President W. G. Lee says he "has taken the position that our organization should not endorse either Coolidge, Davis or La Follette for president of the United States."

The circular reads in part:

"The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, through its convention has declared that it would not ally itself with any political party but believed in following the policy of rewarding labor's friends and defeating labor's enemies."

The adoption of this recommendation, including the organization to independent political action, it declared that the time was not opportune for the brotherhood to ally itself to any particular political organization. In keeping with this resolution, the underlined has taken the position that our organization should not endorse either Coolidge, Davis or La Follette for president of the United States. Information furnished by the office by the Washington legislative bureau shows the labor record of each of the above mentioned candidates for president is about 100 percent in each instance as could reasonably be expected.

"State legislative boards have been advised that in our opinion they should endorse neither republican, democratic nor independent like or party, but instead should confine their endorsement to candidates for state office, including candidates for the United States house and senate."

THE WEATHER

WITH THE FARMERS

Farm Bureau Official Information

ADVERSE WEATHER WORRIES FARMERS

Threshing Held Up. Tobacco Slow and Corn Is Gamble.

Southern Wisconsin farmers are in the position of being prosperous on paper but drowned out in reality.

About the only encouraging factor the farmer has is to read of corn at $1.24 a bushel and grain jumping in price, but he comes down to earth, looking at his empty bins and soggy fields. Weather conditions have soured the farmer regarding harvest prospects.

About all that is needed now to run everything is a sharp and early frost, declares the farmer. Nature was kind and favorable in the first part of the growing season, with the bumper crops with good markets. The farmer is now about the time the waving fields of rye, barley, oats, and what little wheat is raised in southern Wisconsin are being cut. Along with corn, rain and rain still more rain with unfavorable cold weather.

There has been practically no summer weather to produce the crops. Consequently, the farmer is standing idle, dripping water as the grain stands ready in the shock or waiting to be cut. While the rain will not reduce materially the quantity, it will damage the color and quality of the grain and the wheat is in the hands of the market. It is the ability to work in the field at this time, in addition to the fact the storm, that the farmer is in a bad way. The rain has been so that much of the grain is being lost. The cold weather and excessive moisture prevented late grain from heading out properly. It is difficult to predict on present yields and, if the adverse weather continues, it will be even more difficult to realize the high prices from the present crops.

Corn a Gamble. Corn is a gamble for early frost will ruin the crop for silage. The condition is general for the short crop prospects in the reason for the ground being so late. The corn crop has been a failure in many places in the last 10 days, due to the fact of muddy fields and corn cannot grow without sunlight.

The farmer takes you into tobacco fields ankle deep in mud, and he explains that the plants have not grown to any advantage in the last two weeks. Generally, the tobacco is a little yellow, of small size and not of the best in texture. Growers have been unable to properly cultivate the fields and, like corn, tobacco is now in a bad way.

Hall has caused damage in several sections of Rock and adjoining counties. Well, Pastures Are O. K. The only redeeming feature in the condition of pastures, livestock is sleek and fat from good, natural feed and in bumper hay crop. The large percentage of which is safely stored away in the mow. The second cutting of alfalfa is ready, but even the queen of the beehives needs sunshine to cure properly.

Farmers will feed a vast number of sheep this fall and, because of lower prices, take more interest in swine.

There is danger of overfeeding the sheep feeding branch, for good and steady prices have caused many to shift to western sheep to utilize the heavy supply of forage.

Grain threshed in wet weather will mold and must in the line but it seems the longer the farmer waits, the more it rains.

PUT ON STEAM IN FINAL CAMPAIGN

Hirst, Comings and Blaine Plan Eleventh Hour Stump Activities.

Madison—With but two more weeks of the race for state and legislative offices remaining, political candidates are drawing to a climax their campaigns with determined drives for votes. Reports from headquarters of the various candidates here indicate the outstanding contest—that for the governorship, will be waged until the last hour before the voters go to the polls on September 2, it is stated. Milwaukee will be the center of gubernatorial activities next week, with the state fair in progress. Governor Blaine and A. F. Hirst, republican candidates, will both spend considerable time at the fair drumming up votes. Other candidates, including Secretary of State Zimmerman, Treasurer Leavitt and Henry Johnson, are expected to concentrate on the campaign during the last week of the campaign.

Mr. Hirst will make one of his final campaign addresses in Madison on August 26, at a rally planned in his behalf. He probably will close his campaign at Watertown on Labor day, according to his campaign director. Governor Blaine has not yet been completely decided on his plans. He is likely to make one of his final talks in Eau Claire, his home. However, he probably will spend election day in Madison.

GOOSE ISLAND IS OFFERED TO CITY

Use of Big Tract as Playground Is Volunteered Without Cost.

Victor P. Richardson has offered the city the use of Goose Island as a public playground and built dike around it without cost, provided the city will do the necessary grading work and remove surplus vegetation. Mr. Richardson's offer was made to City Manager Henry Traxler Tuesday, and it is believed the proposal will be accepted as the manager is aware of the dearth of good baseball fields in Janesville.

It would be an excellent play space for the children of the city, the property being level and covering a large area, said Mr. Richardson. "It is especially to a bathing beach also makes it desirable for such a purpose."

Both he and Mr. Traxler agreed that the tract could be fitted up for a playground at comparatively small expense, with the work being done by equipment of the department of public works. It is probable nothing will be done this year on fixing up the property but early start next spring is anticipated.

Used as Dump. Goose Island is being used at present as a public dumping ground and is gradually growing larger and larger as the surrounding water is filled in with refuse. A man is in charge constantly and as a result, there have been no complaints of offensive odors this year. All perishable refuse is placed under water as soon as it is deposited and the tract is kept graded at all times.

"People who live in that section tell me the dump has never been kept in as good condition as it has been this year," said Mr. Traxler. "The dump is in the Fourth ward marsh."

Site for New Bridge

Mr. Richardson also owns the property north of Goose Island along the Madison river, extending as far as St. Mary's avenue. The sloughs in that area are being filled in gradually and it is his hope that the city will eventually take over this stretch along the river for park purposes.

In the opinion of Mr. Traxler, the new bridge Janesville should be constructed at that point, running from the west end of St. Mary's avenue across the river to connect with Magnolia avenue. This would provide a through route across the river for people living in the northern part of the city and would connect up three trunk line highways—10, 72 and 12. The city sections of the city are well taken care of as far as bridges are concerned, the manager believes.

It will be impossible to furnish transportation for mothers, however, it is announced.

Automobiles will leave each school grounds at 9:30 a. m. on Thursday, and all children, whether they are enrolled at any playground or not, are invited to attend the picnic which will conclude the municipal work for this year. DEMOCRATS LOOK FOR PARTY UNITY

Bryan Speech Pleasing to Partisans; Clings to Platform.

By DAVID LAWRENCE. Copyright, 1924, by the Janesville Gazette—Special Correspondence to the Janesville Gazette.

Washington—Although there has been no anxiety as to the character of Gov. Bryan's speech of acceptance, a manifest, if not a questionably the managers of the democratic party, breathes today as they read the address of Nebraska's governor.

Until now the impression has been cultivated by many republicans that the democratic party was a party of reaction and that the voters would not be considering candidates for the party platform but two men who would interpret it differently.

Hide for Radicals

The speech by Gov. Bryan puts an end so far as the democrats are concerned to any such fears. For Mr. Bryan not only has kept within the limits of the platform—he really has little difficulty for his own head but he comes out for John W. Davis as a progressive and makes a bid to the radicals in both parties to follow the democratic ticket.

Appeal to Western Voters

One thing can be counted upon—the Bryan speech represents the type of appeal the democratic party will make to the western voters. It is intended to be more progressive than the republican platform and not as radical as the La Follette pronouncements. It is designed to win the approval of those independent voters who do not wish to consider themselves as conservatives and yet who do not wish to follow the La Follette band wagon. Whether such a group is numerically large is difficult to conjecture, but there is no such uncertainty as to the number of voters inside the democratic party who have been looking with some favor on the La Follette movement.

The Bryan-Davis campaign after all will be fought most vigorously in the west and that is why the Bryan speech to acceptance is a keynote of the national campaign itself as it will be waged by every one of the democratic candidates from John W. Davis down. There will incidentally be no abandonment of this doctrine when campaigning in the east for the appeal will not be to conservatives who are most of them lifelong republicans but to independents. The speech of Charles G. Dawes, vice presidential nominee of the republican party, is expected to be in close accord with the Coolidge address of acceptance and with the four leading speeches delivered at the national campaign will be on in full swing this week.

DAWES ACCEPTS AND JUMPS INTO DRIVE

Although giving the credit to President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes, Mr. Dawes predicted that the acceptance of the republican plan worked out under his direction meant peace and prosperity for Europe and saving of the United States from inevitable agricultural and industrial depression.

His speech, after defining the position of the republican party as one of progressive conservatism and that of the La Follette independent candidate as one of extreme radicalism, declared the democratic party stood in between and "instead of tearing itself from the two battle lines, will suffer only the fate which befalls those who try to straddle in a real fight."

Defies Radicals

Mr. Dawes spoke in response to the formal notification address delivered by A. W. Jeffries, former representative from Nebraska, and chairman of the official notification committee, who likewise attacked "the man from Wisconsin," whom he said had thrown off "all pretense of republicanism and has run away from the home where for 16 years he has been and sheltered, and has finally eloped with the socialist party."

What Dawes Said

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Evansville, Ind.—Three issues, "the fundamental principles of our constitution," the league of nations and the world court were the principle subjects in the address of acceptance by General Charles G. Dawes of the republican vice presidential nomination.

In discussing the constitution, General Dawes attacked the La Follette movement, socialism and what he called "radicalism" in the La Follette movement and in one section of the democratic party, termed the chief opponent of the republican party.

He prefaced the address with figures on economy in public expense effected by the republican administration.

"This administration reduced the cost of governmental operation, and it was not by accident," he said. "By this saving, he said, 'unapproimately $6,000,000 per day less, for national purposes, will be achieved in the fiscal year of 1925."

In the last pre-budget year after debt payments federal expenditures were 59 per cent and those of states and towns 41 per cent, while in 1923, he said, the federal government took 28 per cent of the taxes compared with 72 per cent by the other three.

"The federal government," he added, "is headed in the right direction, and must of the states, cities and towns in the wrong direction."

Mr. Dawes said President Coolidge was "uninformed by motives of political expediency."

The republican party, he said, stands firmly on the constitution. "Opposed to it," he said, "though the result may be to deadlock the presidency and make a bad precedent of Coolidge policy, is a policy of untold and dangerous radicalism." He said this movement had a platform drawn by one person, designed to soften "apprehension as to what the movement really means."

His Socialist Act

"A man is known by the company he keeps," Mr. Dawes, and quoted from Associate Justice Brandeis concerning the "Cleveland socialist convention." He read a formally enrolled under the La Follette banner, and another quoted Eugene V. Debs as thinking it "wise for our party to make no nomination, and to keep the red flag flying."

"Here is the battle alignment, and here are the flags," said Mr. Dawes.

"Between these two armies of 'progressive conservatism' and of 'radicalism,' Mr. Dawes named the democratic party "with one conservative and one radical candidate, hoping to get votes by avoiding the issue." He predicted the democrats would "suffer the fate which befalls those who try to straddle in a real fight."

"We are face to face with an abnormal condition in this country. The American citizen has seen men advocating in the same state at the same time, irrespective of their consistency, increased wages for railroad labor and decreased railroad rates, and higher prices for beef on the hoof and lower prices for beef on the table. From the average candidate, in either party, he must accept either evasion or a doctrine designed to please him, whether or not it tends to plunge the whole country into disaster."

"Robert M. La Follette, leading the army of extreme radicalism, has a platform demanding public ownership of railroads and attacking our courts."

"Our nation is asked to follow an attack upon them (our constitutional principles) missed behind the existing order of things, the greatest section of which, the socialist, flies the red flag; and into what? Into reopening of war upon those fundamental principles of human liberty and inalienable rights of men which are giving in this country a safe opportunity to the humblest."

Mr. Dawes said the league of nations was not approved by the people of the United States because it did not make clear to their minds that it did not encroach on the sovereignty of the United States.

"Perhaps," he said, "if those who drew the league plan had felt it incumbent to make its exact meaning as clear to the average man as to those who drew it, the United States might have been spared immersion for five years in the humbug of bank of debate on the league."

The democratic platform declaration on the league, he characterized as "an invitation to again enter that fog of debate in a public referendum."

Two Great Principles. He thought that the people of the United States were settled on "two great fundamental principles" and that the country's sovereignty and independence must always be preserved, and second that the country should meet its international duties unflinchingly. Taking the expert committee on reparations.

"With the experts plan inaugurated," he said, "all Europe turns toward a new and peaceful life. The United States will be saved from the depths of an inextinguishable and great depression in industry and agriculture which the continued war has caused. Europe would entail. Indeed, the world enters upon a period of peace and prosperity."

In the propositions of President Coolidge, he said, "a new and peaceful world, there is safeguarded the sovereignty of the United States and its interests."

Likening the world court to a courthouse, he said, "we do not have to try cases in it, unless we desire to. But we must remember that sometimes when a house is built, it may be a very convenient thing to go into to avoid rain and lightning. Yet, and probably avoid the thunder-bolts of war."

Only Safe Policy

Asserting that American citizenship will trust its representatives to uphold as ably and fearlessly the honor of the country and the flag in any conflict of peace as it trusts its youth behind the flag in war," Mr. Dawes said:

"The republican platform on foreign relations, in connection with the league, carried out with the common sense, clear vision and courage of Calvin Coolidge, offers the American people a constructive course of honor, safety and progress. It offers the only policy which at this time means the possibility of accomplishment."

Mr. Dawes said that in his speech at Lincoln, Neb., August 17, he would discuss "the non-partisan and economic agricultural question."
